AWARD-WINNING DANISH AUDIO

 PRODUCT PROMOTIONAL AND GIFT CATALOGUE

2025

AUDIO DICTIONARY:

ANC

is an abbreviation for "Active Noise Cancellation". It is a built-in technology that, through small integrated microphones and speakers, generates a type of artificial "noise" in the headphones that humans can barely hear.

This reduces external noise and sounds around you, allowing for a more immersive audio experience with fewer distractions.

HYBRID ANC

is a more advanced technology than standard ANC.

By using both external and internal built-in microphones, HYBRID ANC reduces external noise across a wider frequency range, providing a better and more immersive noise-canceling audio experience.

ENC

is an abbreviation for "Environmental Noise Cancellation."

The technology is built into the internal microphone in your headphones.

ENC reduces background noise through the microphone, making your voice come through more clearly to the people you are speaking with.

AMBIENT / TRANSPARENCY MODE

Selected headphones have this feature, which uses small built-in microphones to amplify external sounds from your surroundings, allowing you to hear what's happening around you more clearly. This is especially useful when someone is speaking to you or in situations where you need to stay extra alert.

A profile shot of Francis Dickoh, a Black man with short hair, wearing large, dark, over-ear headphones. He is looking off to the side with a focused expression. The background is a soft, out-of-focus blue.
